Coal Fields of the Northern Coast

WRITTEN AT SEA, OFF THE COAST OF OREGON
April [illegible]

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

Last evening I wrote a letter reporting the resources of Victoria [illegible] that may be built within the Straits De Fuca. Among other things I noted some facts about the coal seams of Nanaimo and vicinity, Bellingham Bay and the new discovery of stone coal on Queen Charlotte's Island. It may be added that another vein of coal was found near that of Bellingham Bay as early as November 1852, and the same vein was found cropping out on an Island in range between Bellingham Bay and Nanaimo, but these have not been worked. They remain to be developed by future capital for future markets.

Last autumn a discovery of coal was made about fifteen miles inside of the Cape Flattery Light House between Clalam Bay and Pisth river in Washington Territory. It is almost a stone coal, so says my informant, who had his information from the President of a Company formed in Victoria to work it. Samples of it, he said, were on board the Cosby, which was wrecked, or notice would have appeared of the mine before this time. In March a vessel was freighted with two or three hundred tons of it for San Francisco to be tested. It has probably arrived by this time, and we shall soon hear more of it. The seam opens near the sea. A slide is built to shoot the coal from the mine to the ship. It is claimed to be superior to that of Queen Charlotte's Island. If this is true, it is a "great strike"—better than a mine of silver. Being on our side, coastwise vessels will take it free of duty to our ports and give it the command of the markets.

There is coal, doubtless, below the Cowlitz on the Columbia, which the enterprise of future years will develop. The Coose Bay coal is shipped regularly in large quantities to San Francisco.

All these discoveries, so widely separated, indicate extensive "coal measures" on our coast, and promise to be a source of comfort and convenience and of wealth to present and future generations. They are our most needed agent to test and develop our iron and copper mines. They give value to our numerous mineral deposits. It is also a noticeable fact, as Gen. A. has remarked to me, that they are all near the sea, or on it, and accessible to ships and freighting vessels without carriage.

A schooner of 73 tons was unloading at Esquimalt on Wednesday, which came down from Nanaimo on Tuesday. Freight was $[illegible] per ton. 2000 tons were on the wharf at the time. Our ship took on about 200 tons for the round trip. The cost at Esquimalt, in large quantities, is about $8 75 per ton. If the Clalam coal proves a success, we may hope ere long to have it cheap enough for our fires in Portland. If it be stone coal, our foundry men will smile, and the Oswego Iron Mountain will be compelled speedily to give up its treasures.

Yours,
TRAVELER

THE GOVERNMENT PARDONS DESERTERS.—There are supposed to be persons in Oregon interested in the terms of the following proclamation notifying deserters to return to their duty and offering pardon to all so reporting themselves:

WAR DEPARTMENT, PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 11, 1865.

CIRCULAR No. 8.

In conformity with the Proclamation of the President herewith published, all officers and employees of this Bureau are instructed to give prompt attention to the receiving and forwarding of such deserters as present themselves in accordance with its provisions.

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA:

A PROCLAMATION.

"WHEREAS, the twenty-first section of the act of Congress, approved on the third instant, entitled 'An act to amend the several acts heretofore passed to provide for the enrolling and calling out the national forces, and for other purposes,' requires 'that in addition to the other lawful penalties of the crime of desertion from the military or naval service, all persons who have deserted the military or naval service of the United States who shall not return to said service, or report themselves to a Provost Marshal within sixty days after the proclamation hereinafter mentioned, shall be deemed and taken to have voluntarily relinquished and forfeited their rights of citizenship and their rights to become citizens, and such deserters shall be forever incapable of holding any office of trust or profit under the United States, or of exercising any rights of citizens thereof; and all persons who shall hereafter desert the military or naval service, and all persons who, being duly enrolled, shall depart the jurisdiction of the district in which he is enrolled, or go beyond the limits of the United States with intent to avoid any draft into the military or naval service duly ordered, shall be liable to the penalties of this section. And the President is hereby authorized and required forthwith, on the passage of this act, to issue his proclamation setting forth the provisions of this section, in which proclamation the President is requested to notify all deserters returning within sixty days as aforesaid that they shall be pardoned on condition of returning to their regiments and companies, or to such other organizations as they may be assigned to, until they shall have served for a period of time equal to their original term of enlistment.'

"Now, therefore, be it known that I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, do issue this my Proclamation, as required by said act, ordering and requiring all deserters to return to their proper posts; and I do hereby notify them that all deserters who shall, within sixty days from the date of this Proclamation, viz: on or before the 10th day of May, 1865, return to service or report themselves to a Provost Marshal, shall be pardoned, on condition that they return to their regiments and companies, or to such other organizations as they may be assigned to, and serve the remainder of their original terms of enlistment, and, in addition thereto, a period equal to the time lost by desertion.

"In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the City of Washington, this eleventh day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, and of the Independence of the United States the eighty-ninth.

[L. S.] "ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

"By the President:

WILLIAM H. SEWARD,
Secretary of State."

The records and returns of these deserters will be made up in the same manner as is provided in other cases by existing regulations, except that it will be noted in the books of deserters arrested, [illegible] the name of the deserter the fact of his having voluntarily surrendered himself in accordance with the President's Proclamation, and the number thus surrendering themselves will be separately stated on the report to this office.

The Secretary of War directs that no reward be paid for the arrest of deserters who may be arrested subsequent to the receipt of this order by the District Provost Marshals.

JAMES B. FRY,
Provost Marshal General.

[illegible]

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY [illegible], 186[illegible]

News of To-day

The dispatches we publish this morning have unusual significance and most acceptable meaning. Their import is peace in the fullest sense of the word, and in the meaning most favorable to our cause. We have the assurance that Gen. Johnson has resolved upon it, that he has most entirely and heartily accepted the idea of submission to the General Government, in the hope that slavery is extinct. From every quarter we hear of surrenders to our armies, and in many cases thousands of rebel soldiers have come in, and taken the oath of allegiance. Sherman's attempt at diplomacy is explained by a statement that he desired to meet the full and hearty frankness of Johnson half way, and so rather overdid the thing. We are glad to know, as we now do, that Johnson made surrender to him finally, and that the luster of his fame is untarnished by his late blunder.

Immense stores of cotton were seized at Mobile, together with other articles of value. The devastation of war is over, we hope never to be resumed, and already the work has been commenced to restore our beloved country to permanent peace, prosperity and happiness. The dispatches we give, are of unusual interest.

Richard Cobden.—The telegraph brought us some weeks ago the news that Cobden was dead. In the hurry of late events we have neglected alluding to his life and character as we had intended, for the services of Cobden command the respect of the world, while his friendship for the United States shown so frequently in his public career demands a fitting tribute at our hands. Richard Cobden was a man of the people, and always devoted his energies and influence to advance their interests. His name is associated with the great reform movements of the last twenty-five years, and he is now respected for the advocacy of measures that at first covered his name with scorn and ridicule. His appeal in behalf of the people, made to Parliament during the first years of his membership, were scorned and jeered at, but he lived to see them carried into effect and to receive therefor the plaudits of a grateful people. His wisdom and foresight are now fully acknowledged and appreciated and his name is part of English history, while his sympathy with the American people, insures that his name will be preserved to be honored by the coming millions that shall reverence the heroes and statesmen of to-day.

One Righteous Man in Sodom.—Gov. Aiken, of South Carolina went home early in the war, refused to have any part or lot in secession and remained upon his plantation, an unwilling subject of Jeff Davis. This was the more noticeable, as he was one of the largest slaveowners in the South, perhaps the largest numbering his slaves by the thousand. It was for him that Stevens, of Pennsylvania, voted in the long contest for the Speakership before the war, and when rebuked for so doing, he answered that large slave owners like Aiken were right enough, it was "one nigger men" that made all the trouble. The following extract shows that the name of Aiken will remain a redeeming feature in connection with the late career of South Carolina.

A letter from Charleston in the Washington Republican says ex Governor Aiken has reported the names of all his slaves seven hundred and fifty in number, to the Commandant of the post, and given each family a farm on one of the most fertile and productive islands on the coast, placed them on it, and all are well started in life.

General Lee on State Rights.—General Lee, to believe a correspondent of the New York Herald, claims to be not a politician but a soldier who opposed secession, but when his State went out, he considered it his duty to go with it. According to his statement all his military service was rendered to Virginia, and he offers the unique and not over wise opinion that in a war raised to support State Rights there can be no treason. We will leave political strategists to develop the nice points suggested by General Lee, not doubting the justice of his claim to be more a soldier than a politician, and admiring his simplicity more than his argument. It is [illegible] that the General started into the war with the idea of State rights well developed as the chief basis of his belligerent attitude. No doubt he has done his part as a soldier to the full extent the Confederacy required.

A Great Mistake.—The lady who has furnished us an account of the trip of the Sierra Nevada from San Francisco, with her impressions by the way, made a great mistake in accusing either the people of Astoria or of Oregon generally, of depending "mainly" upon California for supplies of vegetables. There are times when the California gardens afford the few among us who can afford to pay for them, early vegetables. There are also times, as the present spring, when we ship vegetables to California. New York and every eastern city, have fruit and vegetables brought to supply their markets from all the Atlantic coast and islands. The State of Oregon is prosperous, and its prosperity is based on its agricultural interests. Those who doubt it can see for themselves by visiting the fields, gardens, orchards and pastures of the Willamette and Columbia that form a basis of a permanent prosperity which is not often equalled.

The Meanest Profits in the Government.—A Confederate soldier stationed at Buford, South Carolina, some time since, having had occasion to write to his "dearest Julia," did so at some length, and concluded as follows, verbatim et literatim:

We are in South Carolina where this rebellion started, and every house has to be guarded, and no man can get in a house unless he is a captain or some other officer of a high rank. If the Yankees has to be in any part of the Government I want them here, for these are the meanest people in the Government. We will move down a few miles in the morning and then if we are to go in the ditches we will not do it.

During the last two weeks we have received from various quarters accounts of public rejoicing over the great victories achieved by the nation, and of others that were held to honor the memory of the late President. This shows that the heart of the people of Oregon is in the right place, but we have not been able to find room for the publication of all such communications.

Positively Declines.—J. D. Maxon, of Clarke County, W. T., received the nomination for the Legislative Assembly at Vancouver recently by the Democratic Convention, and wishes us to state that his name was thus used without his knowledge or consent, and further that he positively declines being a candidate of that party in any position whatever.

Twenty Dollars for a Yankee Scalp.—Two rebel negroes were recently captured in front of the Army of the James, who had concealed themselves and picked off several of our men. They said they had been promised twenty dollars for every Yankee they would kill.

[DISPATCHES TO THE [illegible]]

DATES TO APRIL 30.

Progress of Funeral Cortege.

Columbus, O., April 29.—Notwithstanding the inclement weather crowds of citizens assembled at the depot at [illegible] o'clock to take a last look at the coffin containing the remains of the late President. At half past [illegible] the train reached Columbus. A committee of [illegible] took charge of the coffin. The Ladies' [illegible] and citizens, [illegible] the coffin was placed in the hearse which was [illegible] the [illegible] in their cities. The flowers [illegible] by [illegible] lined along the line [illegible] the coffin the procession was formed, the [illegible] of [illegible] and the veteran reserves as a guard of honor.

We have New Orleans files of April [illegible]. The news of the assassination of President Lincoln cast a pall of gloom and despondency over the city which was draped in mourning. Meetings were held and expressions of heartfelt [illegible] put forth. The city was never more terribly shocked.

New York Trade Report.

New York, April 28.—There was no general activity in commercial circles this week owing to the funeral ceremonies of the late President, but trade is steadily improving now that the restrictions are removed from the Southern ports. There is a speculative ring, [illegible] at 148, popular faith in the Government credit being opposed to a raise. Foreign exchange has been variable. Bankers bills at 60 days range from 10 to 110 in a weak market. Money is abundant at 5 and 6 per cent at call. 7 to 9 per cent on good commercial paper. Indications are in favor of a continuation of the present prices. Groceries are higher. Flour is less active. Wheat is irregular, $1 [illegible] for winter red western, and $1 8 for choice Michigan. The Wool market is dull this week, and but little is doing in hides. Freights to California are dull or than ever.

Cleared April 26th—[illegible] for San Francisco, of [illegible] line.

What Johnston Surrendered.

New York, April 29.—The Herald's special dispatch says: The organization included in the force surrendered by Johnston is the military division of the West, the army of the Tennessee, Gen. Johnston; the army of North Carolina, Gen. Bragg; the army of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, Lieut. Gen. Hardee, and the Georgia Militia, Major General Howell Cobb. The only remaining rebel army east of the Mississippi unsurrendered is that of Dick Taylor, which also formed part of Johnston's command, but as Jeff Davis is probably making his way through that district Johnston doubtless declined to surrender it until Davis could get beyond the Mississippi. It is estimated that 66 general officers were surrendered by Johnston, ranking as follows: Full Generals, 2; Lieut. Gens. 5; Maj. Gens. 20; Brig. Gens. 38.

New York, April 30.—The Herald's Newbern correspondent of April 27th says: The lamentations of Sherman's army over the assassination of Lincoln, suddenly turned to rejoicing at the appearance of Grant. The terms granted to Johnston embraced in the surrender four armies of the Military Division of the West, but excluding that of Dick Taylor lying west of the Chattahoochee river. Among the Generals surrendered is Beauregard. The principal among the Lieut. Gens. is Hardee. Bragg lately relieved of the command was not surrendered. Wade Hampton refused to surrender, and is reported to have been shot by Johnston in an altercation, but the more trustworthy report is that he fled in company with Jeff Davis. The number of men surrendered is 27,400 although more names are given. All the militia from South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia and the Gulf States are included.

Treatment of Maryland Rebels.

New York, April 30.—The Herald's New Orleans dispatch says: Cortinas has captured Bagdad, Mexico. The garrison was very small.

Washington, April 29.—Information has been received that the rebel iron clad Stonewall left Teneriffe on the 22d for the West Indies, and it is supposed that by this time she is in that locality. The Government is establishing military posts to St. Marys, Prince George and Charles counties, Maryland. This is done to protect loyal people in that vicinity and prevent any treasonable demonstrations by the disloyal. The protection which was given to the murderer Booth exhibited the strength of the latter. The troops are to forage on the country and give returns of everything they take which will be paid for to all persons proving their loyalty.

Particulars of Johnston's Surrender to Sherman—Johnston tired of the War.

New York, April 29.—A Washington correspondent says it is not generally believed that Johnston or any other leading rebels expect the Federal Government to accede to their propositions unless greatly modified. One evidence is, that prominent civilians who accompanied the army or were in the immediate vicinity at the conferences, suddenly disappeared soon after. Another is, that in leaving that, our Government had refused to entertain such overtures. Johnston needed no further time for reflection or for conference with the military authorities. At [illegible] o'clock on the morning of the 27th, General Sherman notified Johnston that terms were not accepted, and that the truce would end in forty eight hours. Later in the day he sent another flag demanding a surrender on the same terms accorded to Lee.

Johnston replied on the 15th, asking an interview for modifying previous agreement of surrendering the army. Sherman declined to discuss the subject on the basis of the old agreement, but named the time and place where he would meet him. They accordingly met near Durham Station, 27 miles from Raleigh on the 26th. Johnston was outspoken and frank in arranging the agreement for capitulation. A few minutes conversation settled the preliminaries and the terms. These were soon reduced to writing and signed and are the same as extended to Lee although not expressed precisely in the same language. The negotiations were conducted in Sherman's name. Johnston had no intimation of the Lieutenant General's presence at Raleigh, until after the terms of capitulation were signed, when Grant quietly put his approval on the back of them. During the interview between Sherman and Johnston the latter uniformly declared that the war was over, that to continue it a moment longer would not only be wrong but criminal, and that when the Southern people learned that his army and Lee's had surrendered there would be none to counsel longer continuance of the contest. He stated openly that his troops should fight no longer if he could obtain reasonably satisfactory terms, and that he would disband and send them home. The armies were nearly sixty miles apart at the time the capitulation was signed.

Sherman had removed part of his army far beyond Raleigh before the truce was agreed on. After signing the famous memoranda this force was driven back to the latter city, except Kilpatrick's cavalry which picketed a line of country about twenty miles beyond Raleigh. Johnston's troops were well back toward Greensboro, the railroads between which were in running order all the time and the opposing Generals proceeded by rail to a point nearly equally distant, where interviews were held. The telegraph was also working through Johnston's army to Selma, Macon, Montgomery and other Southern cities. Sherman's first news of Wilson's success at those places was received over the railroad through the heart of the rebel army. Johnston even went so far as to facilitate the transmission of news to and from Wilson and begged Sherman to put an immediate stop to further devastation of Southern country.

The terms of the original memorandum it is reported, had the approval of his army commanders and many able and influential officers. Gens. Blair and Logan were among the number who dissented, and are reported to have done all in their power to prevent the acceptance of the conditions of these proposals. The time and armistice was agreed to. Sherman had just received word of the general satisfaction that the terms of Lee's surrender had afforded the North and he believed that greater magnanimity prevailed then at any former period. He has a copy of the Richmond Whig in which was a proclamation of General Weitzel convening the rebel Legislature of Virginia. Everything transpired to make him exceedingly lenient.

From Texas.

New York, April [illegible].—The Houston (Texas) Telegraph publishes the details of a conference between Gen. St. Auger (rebel) and Gen. Lew Wallace, in which the former claims that the latter guaranteed in case of the surrender of the rebel forces in Texas protection to all slave property, the maintenance of the Monroe doctrine and the establishment of a protectorate over Mexico. A letter from the rebel Maj. Gen. Walker, however, shows that the terms offered were that they must lay down their arms, take the oath of allegiance and accept the terms of the Amnesty Proclamation or foreign exile, as the U. S. Government would grant only those terms. The rebel General indignantly rejected this and claims that with 100,000 men yet in the field the rebels can achieve their independence.

From Mobile.

The Herald's Mobile correspondent says: Our forces captured there 20 guns, 10,000 stand of arms and 0,000 bales of cotton, besides immense quantities of corn and other grain. It is also estimated that 20,000 bales of cotton and [illegible] had [illegible] in the [illegible] the [illegible] which are within reach of our forces. [illegible] stragglers from the rebel army have given themselves up. Guerrilla bands infest the neighborhood of [illegible]. A party of them went to the Bonte [illegible] on the night of the 11th intending to [illegible] but fortunately it wasn't there. The dispatch boat Rep [illegible] was blown up by a torpedo on the 14th, killing two and wounding [illegible].

A dispatch dated April 13th says: An officer from [illegible] arrived at Canby's headquarters and [illegible] the surrender of [illegible].

General Southern News.

New York, April 30.—Macon, Augusta and Columbus papers contain accounts of the capture of Wilson's [illegible] up to the 20th. The rebels are represented as fighting hard, but were defeated and lost.

The West Point railroad was burned. All the bridges, rolling stock and the Lagrange depot were burned, but no private property. The city of Griffin was surrendered by the Mayor.

Cairo, April 30.—Advices from New Orleans report that the rebel ram Webb passed New Orleans in broad daylight displaying the stars and stripes. After passing, she hoisted the rebel flag. When a few miles above Fort Rhinto [illegible] her engine got out of order and she was blown up and deserted. As far as known she did not [illegible] damage. A portion of her crew left and [illegible] New Orleans; the remainder [illegible] left for parts unknown.

Louisville, April 30.—One hundred and five officers and one thousand men of Morgan's old command surrendered to Gen. Hobson at Mount Sterling to-day. Twelve hundred rebels surrendered at [illegible] to Gen. Hobson to-[illegible]. Several hundred deserters from the rebel army took the oath and Western Kentucky is now clear of rebel troops.

Miscellaneous.

New York, April 29.—The Post's special dispatch says: It is estimated that Secretary Stanton's order will dismiss at least 9,000 persons from service.

The latest advices show that there is a good prospect of capturing Jeff. Davis' specie and baggage train, if not himself and Cabinet.

The Commercial's special says: The surrender of Johnston to Sherman is regarded as marking the end of the war. It is not apprehended that any great difficulty will be encountered in hunting the rest of the insurgents. Grant having virtually completed the war will return to Washington and apply himself to the reduction of the military [illegible] establishment. [illegible] have been already made for a large curtailment of expenses.

The policy to be adopted towards the rebels in civil life, who have not availed themselves of President Lincoln's amnesty, begins to excite attention. Probably they may be [illegible] too late to avail themselves of its provisions.

The Herald's dispatch says: Rear Admiral Porter is detached from the command of the North Atlantic Squadron, and Commander Radford succeeds.

The Herald's special says: Our Consul General in Canada has given notice to the authorities that all criminals connected with the assassination of Lincoln must be surrendered to the United States authorities.

A Washington correspondent says: From certain indications it is probable that Jeff Davis will continue his flight South and endeavor to reach Cuba in some small vessels or fishing boat from a point on the Florida coast, and ran to place a heavy sum to his bank account in Havana.

New York, April 30.—Intelligence from the Shenandoah states that all of Lee's paroled soldiers going through there have requested permission to take the oath of allegiance.

Many of Mosby's guerrillas have come into Winchester with the paroled soldiers, and among them his second in command, Lieutenant Colonel Chambers.

The Times' special says: The authorities are engaged in a most thorough investigation of the assassination plot, and are engaged in sending out in all directions. In this vicinity nearly two hundred arrests have been made, principally from the adjacent counties in Maryland.

The Herald's Newbern correspondent says: The last positive information of Jeff Davis' movements was that he passed through Charlotte on his way southward, escorted by a brigade of cavalry, probably Wade Hampton's, on the 23d of April.

Gen. Wilson was at Macon on the 20th, and virtually holds all Southern Georgia.

The chances are that Davis can't escape.

Cure Your Cold, Save Your Lungs.

NEWELL'S
PULMONARY SYRUP HAS CURED THOUSANDS!
And it will Cure You!

"A Cough is generally the effect of a Cold, which has either been improperly treated or entirely neglected. When it proves obstinate there is Always reason to fear the consequences,

as this shows a weak state of the lungs, and is often the forerunner of Consumption."—(Buchanan's Domestic Medicine.)

STOP THAT COUGHING!

Some of you can't, and we pity you. You have tried every remedy but the one destined, by its intrinsic merit, to supercede all similar preparations. It is not surprising you should be reluctant to try something else after the many experiments you have made of hastily compounds foisted on the public as a certain cure, but

Pulmonary Syrup!

Is really the VERY BEST remedy ever compounded for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Consumption. Thousands of people in California and Oregon have been already benefited by its surprising curative powers.

WHAT KILLED HIM?

Dr. Hall, in his "Journal of Health," speaking of the death of Washington Irving, asks the above question, and adds: "He might have remained with us for some years to come, had it not been for advice, kindly intended, we doubt, but given in thoughtlessness and in kindly ignorance."

He Had a Cold!

Which, by some injudicious prescription, had been converted into asthma. Let me say to Dr. Hall that that "prescription" was not

NEWELL'S PULMONARY SYRUP.

KEEP IT IN THE HOUSE, use it freely, give it to your children upon the slightest intimation of a Cold, and you will thank and speak of it as all do who have become acquainted with its merits.

Our Country

[illegible]

A Trip to Portland or Wayside Gleanings

[illegible]

[illegible] fraught with abundant well wishes were hastily exchanged as the signal for departure was given. The last man hurried [illegible] and [illegible] safely upon deck. All aboard.

And then we swung lazily out into the bay, leaving the city of San Francisco beautiful in its irregularity whose buildings tier upon tier seemed ever breathing of welcome or parting to the passing [illegible].

[illegible] hills arched rocky caves with deserted halls in their turn slowly receded, and Nature's porter at the Golden Gate [illegible] us [illegible] a refreshing breeze [illegible] the great army of the deep [illegible] gladly [illegible] ours [illegible] the genial [illegible] down their [illegible] [illegible] guard.

The [illegible] hours [illegible] the novelty [illegible] the setting of one's self comfortably circumstances permitting the study of new faces and last but far from least the pavement of Neptune's [illegible]. At times the [illegible] change is more lively than agreeable, and with envy [illegible] the gentlemanly officers who escape the dread [illegible] summons to meals are aggravating in the extreme, only a few endeavoring to make desperate plunges for the table to obtain their money's worth; but their course proved so uncertain and erratic, that they speedily retired in disgust.

Upon day N. 2 many made their debut as gourmandizers in a dilapidated state—amply compensated for lost time. The weather proved charming—deck being patronized more than saloon or state rooms.

Beautiful forest-robed hills or mountains lend themselves as targets for the restless waves against whose sides they vie in dashing higher or overlapping one another. On we gally [illegible] pass along some rock like a huge unique breast pin of wondrous workmanship, rests amid an exquisite cushion of white heaving lace work that veils the fierce passionate heart of Oceana which unceasingly throbs in fury, ever threatening to annihilate the coral homes of below or burst in wrath upon the white winged invaders of his domains under whose pinions many precious souls trust themselves.

The advent of the third day is hailed with expectant pleasure for the bar is to be crossed—that bone of contention between the Ocean and Columbia river—and a sight ever to be remembered, rewards the early riser. A memory [illegible] not soon forgotten. The gray veiled maiden of morning, with her numerous shadowy attendants shyly viewed the night but quickly sped away, with all her mystical train, from the sturdy gaze of her Sun lover that tracks her from place to place, from sphere to sphere. In that hour of poetic spell we were piloted safely around the base of a high jutting brown turreted hill, with lashing waves upon one side of us, and on the other more placid ripples.

A sweeping curve into a bend of the land discloses a little nestling spot, scooped out from the sentinel hill where we lingered awhile to land a company of soldiers. "There is no place like home," appeared like strange wandering notes there, echoing drearily in that solitude.

From here to Portland one constant scene of enchantment haunted the shores. Argus himself could not have had eyes too many, for such variegated beauty as so lavishly displayed itself. All along the banks houses gleamed out like clouds upon a green sky [illegible] grand old trees were flung in drooping garlands, yards of tinted ribbons or flower banners—places so calm so quiet, as if a cooling hand had swept one's heart whispering peace to whatever turbulent thoughts had been there before. Some spots extended back for miles into an unbroken space, then arose suddenly into shielding mountains. Now came dark slumberous forests, near whose base unexpectedly sprang out beautiful [illegible].

A brief landing is made at Astoria,—a small nonchalant, indolent looking town, whose appearance plainly said "I care for nobody and nobody cares for me." My surprise was considerable to learn that in so rich a country, with resources well adapted to the raising of all kinds of produce that the people were mainly dependent upon the San Francisco market, whereas vast fortunes could soon be realized here by farmers and dairymen. Poor sage-brush Virginia in Nevada boasts far more of enterprise in this respect, for by dint of constant labor and irrigation, many vegetables are raised there for the market.

As my eyes rested upon a distant line of blue, an immense icy cone lifted itself in proud distance beyond, spanned by a gorgeous cloud; the sides were dotted by huge chasms, looking like mere specks from our point of view, and Mt. St. Helens stood alone in all its dignity and sublimity.

Still further on was Mt. Hood, with its brow crowned with a diadem of glory, and its helmet and armor of snow reflected broad shafts of lazuline purple and gold as shade or sunlight chased themselves over his hoary form. Those venerable, rival mountains have enraptured a thousand eyes that were raised in awe at their lofty grandeur, making one hold a deep breath as if to fill the soul with the sudden overflowing inspiration.

A booming of cannon startled some minds which were quieted with the knowledge that it was but a signal for those upon shore to telegraph to Portland our near arrival, and as the dusky imps of night commenced lighting their star lamps we reached our destination amid a confusion of delighted exclamations from reunited friends.

"Hallo, Charley, is that you? Ready for Boise?" "You bet," was the expressive hearty response and two harum scarum chaps rushed into a rough embrace, accidentally tipping my hat over my nose, and breaking the little vial of "peppermint drops" so carefully kept for [illegible] and "so handy in my pocket." With many apologies for their rudeness, they hurriedly departed.

As the noise and bustle of city life again greeted me I glanced back with pleasant recollections of the delightful trip just sufficiently long as to ward off the monotony or ennui consequent to a sea voyage.

A recent letter from Paris says: "To show how fine a thing it is to be an Emperor and an author let us state that Napoleon the Third, with a view to carefully learning the military practice of the Romans at the time of Cæsar, and in order to make his forthcoming history of Julius as perfect as study under favorable circumstances will permit, caused an able and learned officer of artillery to ascertain the military costume, the arms, armor, accoutrements, trappings and other warlike instruments, including those proper for siege service, the camp and the field, and to construct the same in the most perfect manner that care and boundless wealth allowed. At the Tuileries has been formed a museum of such articles derived from ancient sculpture, inscriptions and drawings on pottery. [illegible] standards, harness [illegible] machinery, shields, the balista [illegible] catapult, bow and arrow [illegible] has been carefully reproduced [illegible] that when the author desired [illegible] private [illegible] all that needed [illegible] clothe him from the museum. The ghost of Cæsar himself might be invoked with even less of fear than Brutus had, and the [illegible] of the unmatchable spirit have no terror for his successor."

A private letter from Frankfort [illegible] says: "The continued [illegible] great demand [illegible] still in this market as well as in Amsterdam [illegible] everything was bought up that was [illegible]. The [illegible] were very large [illegible] upon orders [illegible] more than New York [illegible] considerable [illegible] seven to [illegible] good demand at that."

The [illegible] states that the Holy Father grants fifty days indulgence to all the faithful who salute with the words "Praised be Jesus and Mary," and he who answers "Now and Forever," gains the same indulgence. Each time these simple words are repeated at meeting a person it saves fifty days of purgatory.

[illegible] New Territory. [illegible] in the House of Representatives [illegible] Territory [illegible] northwesterly along the [illegible] thirty-third degree [illegible] to the forty [illegible] degrees thirty minutes [illegible] the [illegible] of Dakota and of Nebraska; that [illegible] western half, Nevada having become a State. Wyoming will form the [illegible] Territory. Idaho, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, Utah, and Washington [illegible] new States in process of formation [illegible] in a few years take their place in the Union.—N. Y. [illegible] Post.

[illegible] SHERIDAN.—A correspondent of the New York Times writing from Grant's army March 10th relates the following:

[illegible] young men came in early yesterday morning on General Warren's front, claiming at first to be deserters from the enemy. On reaching General Crawford's headquarters they informed the Provost Marshal that they were in reality [illegible] couriers from General Sheridan. [illegible] dispatches were ingeniously concealed. They had circumnavigated the entire rear line of General Lee's army, and had been nine days on the journey. [illegible] started at the [illegible] and two on foot, and it is thought that the [illegible] couriers of General Sheridan's [illegible] already published [illegible].

They state that they were [illegible] to reach General Grant and evidently had quite an interesting [illegible] report [illegible] adventures [illegible] asked them any questions, as it was evident that no information would be gained [illegible]. Just before reaching our lines they captured a rebel cavalry man and brought him safely into our lines. Each had a pair of elegant revolvers and were [illegible] splendid [illegible] of rebel clothes. They were [illegible] proper escort to headquarters.

[illegible] The rebels want soap. Some of them like Lady Macbeth might say "Not all the perfumes of Arabia can sweeten this little hand." A soldier of the 10th Pennsylvania Volunteers at Bermuda Hundred, sends us the following. [illegible] the 4th Virginia, 24 Maryland and 14th Virginia [illegible] change takes place in their lines [illegible] being allowed to remain long in one place. Until yesterday the intercourse between the men of the contending armies was exceedingly familiar. Trading was to the principal articles being coffee, sugar, pocket knives and soap. Soap is in demand. They tell us that they are in greater want of soap than any other article. Would it not be well enough for our Government to send over to the lines a supply? They thus might be induced to desert. Orders have been issued strictly prohibiting any intercourse with the enemy under pain of punishment. I here with send you a specimen of the correspondence that took place during the temporary suspension of hostilities two days ago. I picked up the note whilst passing along our abattis. Johnny writes: "If you can send me Frank Leslie and a little soap I will give you a plug of tobacco. My officers is watching us and we can't come over the breastworks. WM. ROGERS." —Forney's Press.

POLAND.—There is trouble preparing for Poland; agitation again is at work. The N [illegible] tells the following story:

Colonel Baron, of Mengen, commander of a regiment of hussars at Pultusk, perceived that from a neighboring village no less than fifteen burials took place within a few days in the city cemetery. At the next burial the Baron repaired to the churchyard and insisted upon having the coffin opened. The clergyman protested in vain, and, instead of a human body, arms were found deposited in that coffin and in the others.

The latest personal anecdote of General Grant is told [illegible] of his [illegible] railroad train, when he [illegible] as usual, none of the insignia of his rank. A youthful book peddler traversed the cars, crying "Life of General Grant." A mischievous aide [illegible] pointed to the General's seat, suggesting to the boy that "that man might like a copy." General Grant turned over the pages of the book and casually asked "Who is this all about?" The boy, giving him a look of intense [illegible] and disgust, replied: "You must be a darned greeny not to know General Grant!" After this volley, the Lieutenant General of course surrendered, and bought his biography.

RATTLING [illegible].—A good joke is told of the relic hunters. He found the house of the famous Barnwell Rhett, editor of the Mercury, and one of the very first of the first families. He was searching for letters that would reveal the secrets of the Secessionists. He saw a bundle of what appeared to be letters carefully tied away, and, as the Western people say, he "went for it." He eagerly tore the string that held it together and found—what do you suppose? About fifty unpaid tradesmen's bills! He declares it to be one of the most characteristic relics that have been collected yet.

Buckle in his History of Civilization in England proves that the number of marriages depends not, as has been supposed, on the attraction between the sexes but on the price of corn. The statistics of the matrimonial market favor this theory and some close student will some day in like manner tell [illegible] what governs divorce cases.

A grand national sword tournament to determine who is the best swordsman in the United States is soon to be held at Grant's headquarters, each military department to send one delegate. The first prize is a "champion sword" worth $[illegible]; second, $100 cash; third, $[illegible] cash.

A WONDER.—At Lockport, Indiana, recently a man who was [illegible] struck a vein of lead and silver [illegible] inches thick, which yields two ounces of pure silver and eight ounces of pure lead to every pound of ore.

There is on [illegible] in Cork which a paper there claims to [illegible] the [illegible] in the world. It is [illegible] four years old, stands two feet eight inches high, and weighs only about eight stone.

A. T. Stewart the New York millionaire, has offered $[illegible] for Bierstadt's painting of Mount Hood, Oregon. The Webfoot may think that this is more than the whole mountain itself is worth.

LEFFEL'S AMERICAN

DOUBLE TURBINE WATER WHEEL!

LEFFEL'S AMERICAN TURBINE HAS many advantages over all other Wheels, both Turbine and Overshot.

It has competed successfully, with every variety of Wheel and has always proved itself victorious.

This Wheel has been in use nearly Three Years in the States and HAS NEVER MADE A FAILURE.

It is CHEAPER than an Overshot, MORE DURABLE and will YIELD A HIGHER PER CENT. OF POWER from the same quantity of water. We have introduced five on this coast. They are not all in operation yet, but will be in a few days. The following testimonial is from an old and experienced Millwright, well known in this State.

WESTPORT, CLATSOP CO., OREGON, Nov. 19th, 1864.

MESSRS. LEFFEL & MYERS—Dear Sirs: We have plenty of water now and your DOUBLE TURBINE is in successful operation. We are satisfied that your Wheel is fully equal, if not superior to the Overshot. With the same water that the Overshot uses we can do more work with the Turbine than with the Overshot. I have fitted many Wheels which were claimed to be superior to an Overshot, but yours is the first I have found [illegible] the American Double Turbine as the most efficient economizer of water in our knowledge.

JOHN WEST & CO.

We desire all who want Wheels to visit the following named places and have ocular demonstration of the above facts:

John West & Co., West Port, Clatsop County, Oregon; Lewis Love, Vancouver, W. T.; J. P. Lambing, Fisher [illegible] W. T.; Hampton Kelly, three miles East of Portland; Sayler & Co., Oregon City. Address

Dec. [illegible] 1864. LEFFEL & MYERS, Portland, Oregon, Care Richards & McCraken.

N. B.—A new supply of Wheels will be brought out next May or June. Orders will be filed and supplied according to date of order. dec23dawtf

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS, Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus. CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD, heals the irritated parts, gives strength to the digestive organs, brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.
